Murmurings from the Manse

"It is often a great surprise that God's hands can be found at the end of my arms".

I really like the sentiment of that quote and I wholeheartedly endorse the element of surprise which follows anything that is done by an individual which reflects what God would have us do even though the thought has not been uppermost in the mind whilst that action has been undertaken.

I write this as we stand poised at the start of a new year, we have passed Christmas, celebrated and rejoiced and endured the inevitable 'review of the year' which commentators seem to think must happen before we can wave goodbye to the year that is about to end. And now 2018 stands before us, a clean page, a new start, heavy with promise...

Any new year brings chance and challenge in equal measure, let us resolve to commit ourselves anew to be surprised and enthused by whatever plans God has for us and to walk forward in confident faith and expectation.

I wish you all a Happy and blessed new year,

Yours in Christ

Sarah
